DETAILED ACTION

Oath/Declaration

The oath or declaration is defective. A new oath or declaration in compliance with 37 CFR 1.67(a) identifying this application by application number and filing date is required. See MPEP §§ 602.01 and 602.02.

The oath or declaration is defective because:
It does not include the notary's signature, or the notary's signature is in the wrong place.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over “hydrocarbon processing reference” (herein after “Ref”) in view of Ihm et al (4,839,329).

Art Unit: 1764

Note that Ref discloses recycling ethane for cracking and hydrogenating the acetylene (see paragraph 4 of the left column on page 96).

Ref does not disclose that acetylene is hydrogenated to ethylene as recited in step (b) of claims 1 and 30. However, Ihm discloses that acetylene can be hydrogenated to ethylene (the abstract).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the Ref process by hydrogenating acetylene to ethylene to increase the production of desired product.

Clearly, this part of the Ref discloses a part of claim 1 including steps (a), (b), and (c).

The left column of page 126 of Ref disclose ethylene is dimerized to produce butene. Butene is later reacted with ethylene to produce desired propylene after which is separated from others, namely C2 by-products and C4 by-products.

Clearly, this part of the Ref discloses a part of claim 1 including steps (d), (e), and (f).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art who wishes to produce propylene as desire produce at the time the invention was made to have modified the teaching of Ref by integrating the parts taught by Ref as discussed above to arrive at the applicants' claimed process.

Ref disclose C2 hydrocarbons are removed from the metathesis products.

Art Unit: 1764

Ref does not disclose refluxing the C2 hydrocarbons. However, it is obvious to one having in the art to have modified the Ref process by refluxing this hydrocarbon stream to make the top of the distillation wet and to get a purer distillate (Google Search with terms “reflux” and “distillation”).

A recycling of streams to appropriate locations is obvious.

Ref does not disclose how much the content of ethane in the feed is. However, as disclosed by Ref, it is expected that using any hydrocarbon feed containing any amount of different hydrocarbon would yield similar results.
